

ABSTRACT

Influences of Geriatric Syndrome Booklet Media Education on Family Social Support for Elderly in the Bareng Subdistrict Area, Malang City

Risma Hafifa, Prof. Dr. Suprajitno, S.Kp., M.Kes., Marsaid, S.Kep., Ns., M.Kep.

Bachelor of Nursing Study Program Malang, Poltekkes Kemenkes Malang

Family social support is the fulfilment of needs in the life span of the elderly, especially in the elders with geriatric syndrome. The majority considering family social support for the elderly in the Kelurahan Bareng region is at a moderate level with a percentage of 56,7% before being given media education booklets. The social support of the family, when left unnoticed, affects the quality of life of the elderly with the changes that occur. The aim of this research is to find out the influence of media education booklet geriatric syndrome on the social support of elderly families in the area of Kelurahan Bareng Kota Malang. The method of sampling uses purposive samplings with 60 respondents divided into two groups. Data analysis tests use univariate analysis to determine the characteristics of respondents. The bivariate analysis uses the wilcoxon test and man whtney test. The results showed that rhe average score of social family support before intervention was 44,73 (mid category), while the average score after the intervention was 65,47 (high category), and the results obtained were p value 0,000 (p value 0,000 < a 0,05), meaning that there is a effect of education with geriatric syndrome booklet for increase elderly's family social support. The provision of media educational booklet geriatric syndrome in elderly families has an impact on the social support of the family to the elder who is caused by the occurrence of increased knowledge and changes in attitudes towards elder family.

Keywords : Family social support, Education, Booklet, Geriatric syndrome.